REPORT TO 1915 LEGISLATURE

Simplification of Procedure, Remedial Plans for Jury System Defects
Among the Work

John E. McConnell, La Crosse, former member of the Wisconsin legislature and chairman of the assembly judiciary committee during the 1911 session, has been named by Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris as member of the committee to investigate circuit court methods in Wisconsin and recommend to the 1915 legislature means for simplifying procedure and doing away with the "law's delay."

The appointment was made by Mr. Morris pursuant to a resolution passed by the last legislature providing for a committee to consist of two members appointed by the president of the senate, three named by the speaker of the assembly and three to be chosen by the governor from a list of ten submitted by the president of the Wisconsin Bar association. The president of the bar association is also to be a member of the committee, as is the president of the Wisconsin branch of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology.

The other appointee of Lieut. Governor Morris is Judge August C. Backus, judge of the district court at Milwaukee.

Important to Lawyers.

The report of the committee, it is expected, will be the most important thing in legal circles in Wisconsin during recent years. The purpose of the bill creating the committee was to simplify procedure and technicalities in the Wisconsin circuit, to remedy the defects in our present jury system and expedite business generally.

C. P. Bird, Wausau, is president of the Bar association and in all probability he will be chosen chairman of the investigating committee.

For many years it has been the consensus of opinion among Wisconsin jurists and leading attorneys that there was not enough flexibility in our circuit courts in regard to the judges and that the appointment of the work among the twenty circuits was not as even as could be.

Boundaries Iron-clad.

The circuits, point out attorneys, are bound by iron-clad lines and in many instances judges were overworked where in other circuits the duties of the judge are but small in comparison.

Under our present law the only way an outside judge can be brought into a circuit is by the filing of an affidavit of prejudice or illness or inability on the part of the presiding judge. In the United States courts the system is different, a judge being shifted to whatever district in which there is work to be done. This change will in all probability be among the recommendations of the committee.

Lauds Wisconsin.

"Of course our program will be mapped out at a meeting of the committee to be called soon after all the appointments are made," said Mr. McConnell today, following notice of his appointment.

"There are many changes which will undoubtedly receive the recommendation of the committee. We undoubtedly will hold hearings at which prominent lawyers and judges will appear and propose changes."

Mr. McConnell took occasion to pay a tribute to the state courts, however, asserting that many of the defects in procedure had been disposed of already. One instance is the abolition of right to an appeal because of a technical error.

TO EXAMINE SCHMIDT

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Seeking an expert opinion as to the sanity of Hans Schmidt, the priest of St. Joseph's church, who murdered Anna Ammiller and dismembered her body, Assistant District Attorney DeLoach today assigned Dr. Carlos F. McDonald and Dr. William Malone, superintendent of the Manhattan hospital for the insane, to examine the priest this afternoon.

BEEF DISAPPEARS AND COMING RACE WILL BE ANAEMIC RICE-EATERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The twenty-first century American will be an anemic creature, nourished by rice and vegetables, slothful, and as lacking in initiative as a lower caste Chinaman. This is the transformation that will be wrought when the present supply of rich, red beef is completely exhausted.

The American meat packers' association brought this gloomy prediction into town when they arrived for the first session of their annual convention today. Gustav Bischoff, of St. Louis, president of the association, announced the sentiment of the packers. "Porterhouse steak will be sold at $1 per pound within the next ten years unless the farmers of the United States are educated at once to the necessity of raising more cattle," said Bischoff. "If the present decrease continues at the same rate during the next ten years, a crisis will be reached."

"With the beef practically exhausted, the working-classes of American live on a diet of rice and potatoes. And if that era ever sets in there will be quickly noticed a national decline. Much of the virile force of the American people is derived from rich, red, juicy beef."

The situation looked equally gloomy to Melvin A. Traylor, vice president of the National Stock Yards Bank of East St. Louis, Ill., but he thought he saw a way out. "Because of the decline in beef production, the peasant classes of France and Germany have been eating horse flesh for many years," said Traylor. "Now that the automobile is supplanting the horse, why not turn the horses into steaks?"

"HIRE DETECTIVE" SAYS THE MAYOR

This Is Sorensen's Recommendation to Chairman of Legislative Investigating Committee

ONLY WAY TO GET REAL FACTS

Says Views of Civic and Social Workers Serve Only to Scratch Surface of Question

Mayor Ori J. Sorensen today, in a letter to Senator Howard Teasdale, Sparta, Wis., recommended that the vice committee of the Wisconsin legislature, if they are sincere in their desire to know exact conditions in this and in other state cities, hire a detective.

This was the substance of the mayor's reply to the senator's request for names of civic and social workers and others who might aid the committee in determining "why young girls go wrong."

Senator Teasdale's request for the use of the small council chamber for holding hearings was granted.

In discussing the investigation this morning Mayor Sorensen expressed himself as willing to co-operate and do everything possible to aid the committee in its research.

He said, however, that in his opinion the subpoenaing of witness and prominent people was of but little value.

"If the commission wants facts," said the mayor this morning, "it is my opinion that they can best be secured through a secret agent. The expense would be slight and the fund of information to be unearthed in this way would far surpass all that the civic and social workers could tell."

The mayor intimated that he believed an investigation, along the lines now proposed by the commission, was but scratching the surface of a big question.

PANTHER ATTACKS DUBUQUE HUNTERS

Huge Animal Driven Off After Terrific Battle and Country Is Terrorized

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Sept. 23.—While hunting on the Reuben Weber farm, seven miles south of here yesterday, Joseph Bohlen and William Becker were attacked by a huge panther and only escaped after a desperate battle during which they were badly scratched and chewed.

The hunters were passing through heavy underbrush when the panther jumped on them without warning from a tree. They were unable to shoot and fought off the animal with their guns and then fired several loads of shot at it as it fled.

Later in the day the cries of the animal were heard in the woods and the countryside is in a state of terror. Children were escorted to school today by fathers and big brothers, all heavily armed. An expedition is being organized to hunt the panther, for until it is killed women and children dare not venture forth unless escorted by armed men.

WEATHER Milder in West

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Milder weather today superseded the cold wave that gripped the middle west for 72 hours and the mercury began mounting again, with assurance from the weather man that normal September conditions would prevail again this week. Wisconsin, Minnesota and even a few cities in Northern Ohio reported light falls of snow in the last twenty-four hours, and in the states along the Canadian border the snowfall in many instances was sufficiently heavy to cover the ground.

SLAYER LEAVES NOTES BY BODY

Hasty Jerky Epistles Describing Crime Left by Murderer of Merchant

GETS BIG START ON THE POLICE

Act Committed in Hotel and Not Discovered Until Hours Later

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 23.—Police of other cities have been asked to seek a young man who after registering as W. R. Anderson, Louisville, Ky., induced Joseph Schlansky, 52, a clothing merchant, to visit his room at the Oneida hotel to look at a line of clothing, and then killed and robbed him.

Schlansky's dead body, with a strong cord twisted around his neck and a wound over the left eye from some sharp instrument, was found early today. A watch and chain worth $100 and $20 in money he had when he left his store were missing.

"Started to take his money. Killed him," said a note signed "Laury Anderson," and found beside the body.

Another note read: "Started to take his pants, but didn't—Terrible."

The slayer had washed his bloody hands in the room's lavatory and walked out of the hotel to the railroad station nearby, where he probably boarded a train. He has many hours start of the local police because while the crime was committed shortly after noon yesterday, Schlansky's dead body was not found until early today.

CAN'T GET THAW UNLESS HE'S SANE

If He Is Extradited It Implies that He Is Not Insane in New York

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 23.—If Harry K. Thaw, is proved to have committed a crime in New York for which he can be extradited whether it is on a conspiracy charge, or some new charge which William Traverse Jerome has up his sleeve, he will at the same time have been proven sane. This was the real meaning of the argument of Thaw's attorneys during the opening session of the extradition proceedings before Governor Felker today.

When the hearing recessed for lunch, Jerome had not yet laid his cards upon the table, but the issue which the Thaw attorneys were attempting to force was clear. In order to extradite Thaw they asserted that Jerome himself will virtually have to prove that Thaw is sane under the New York laws, in which case he cannot be returned to Matewan.

Wanna Tak'a Trip In My Aeroplane?

"Who's afraid?"
"Give me the chance—I'll go."

"I will if they don't go up over fifty feet."

These and other comments were heard in nearly every downtown office today. The subject under discussion was a "proposed" trip with Aviator Charles P. Niles, giving exhibitions at the fair all this week.

No less personage than the Honorable Ori J. Sorensen, mayor of the city of La Crosse, is willing to take the trip—under certain conditions. The "conditions" relate to speed, height, and wind.

Miss Winifred Salisbury, general secretary of the Associated Charities, is one who isn't afraid—personally—but is forced to think of her responsibilities when she enters any contract involving risk.

Attorney Charles Schweizer will go if the aeroplane works on the theory of the Batavian bank elevator.

No, dear reader! these good people did not volunteer and crawl in the same breath. When the reporter asked them, off hand, if they would make the flight, they jumped at it. They wanted to fly high, wide and handsome. But when the reporter informed them he was commissioned by Birdman Niles to close a deal with some citizen for a flight, they nearly broke the breeching in their haste to back up.

The aviator hasn't signified whether or not he will carry passengers.

WISCONSIN PEOPLE ARE WEDDED HERE

Earl F. Stickney, aged 23, Mathers, Wis., and Agnes Nash, Orange, Wis., were married yesterday afternoon by Judge Leonard Kleebler of this city. The couple will remain in La Crosse during the Inter-state fair, after which they will make their home on a farm owned by Stickney near Camp Douglas. While here they are guests at the home of Mrs. William Freise, an aunt of Mrs. Stickney.

TRAIN HITS WOMAN

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 23.—A young woman, as yet unidentified, was run down and probably fatally injured by a Milwaukee road train early today one mile south of Graunville, Wis.

MORE HUNTERS THAN DUCKS IN MARSHES

There's one thousand two hundred and eighty-five hunters infesting the marshes surrounding La Crosse and singeing the tails of about half that many ducks.

Up to today that number have taken out licenses at the county clerk's office. The "bags" in comparison to the number of hunters—are exceedingly small.

FORMER RAG PICKER HEIR TO BIG FORTUNE AIDS DOWN AND OUTS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 23.—Made wealthy by the death of his sister, Arthur Weaver, aged 49, a former rag picker, who less than a year ago went hungry for days at a time, today continues to live in a ten cent lodging house on North Broadway while he uses his money to provide for the down and outs he meets there, who have lost hope.

The past eight months he has expended $5,000 of the $200,000 he inherited, in backing up his words of consolation. At that he isn't keeping up with his interest, for within a few days $10,000 will be due him.

Every morning Weaver assembles a colony of penniless men at the lodging house and leads them to a restaurant where they eat their fill while he writes the check. The rest of the day he scouts around to see whether his new acquaintances are drinking. If he sees a man entering a saloon he taps him on the shoulder and says: "I'm through with you, pard; no drinking goes for me."

When Weaver was down and out an old negro mammy called him into her shack and gave him a cup of coffee. When she learned he was penniless she gave him five cents.

When attorneys informed him that his sister in New Orleans had left him a small fortune, his first act was to give the negroes $4,500 to show his appreciation of her kindness.

CLAIM SULZER IS NOT ANSWERABLE

Attorneys Declare that He Cannot Be Impeached for Acts Before He Took Office

ASSERT COURT HAS ITS LIMIT

The Impeachment Power Should Not Be Extended to Private Citizens Says Pleader

BY JOHN EDWIN NEVIN
(Staff Correspondent United Press.)
ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Driven into their last line of defenses, the Sulzer lawyers today brought their heaviest artillery to bear on the impeached governor's foes. They centered their fight on the sufficiency of the offenses charged, with D. Cady Herrick leading the argument.

"This is a government of laws and not of men," he began. "The assembly, in preferring articles of impeachment and the court for the trial of the impeachment so preferred, are both governed by the laws of the state, and the law of the state is that public officials can only be impeached for wilful and corrupt misconduct in office."

Herrick quoted at length from early decisions of the supreme court of the United States which he said upheld his contention.

"The power of impeachment is spoken of by Hamilton, as an 'awful' power, if it has no limits," continued Herrick.

"It is respectfully submitted that this court should so interrupt the law as to confine impeachable offenses to 'wilful and corrupt misconduct in public office,' and not to extend it further than it has ever been extended in this country or in England for over 200 years, so as to include offenses committed by a private citizen before he became a public official."

"To so extend it is to make the impeaching power a truly 'awful' power. No statute of limitation will run against it."

MOB AVENGES TWO KILLED BY MINERS

Drunken Foreigners Who Beat Two Americans to Death Attacked at Benton, Ill.

MILITIA IN CONTROL OF CITY

Town Still Excited and More Trouble Is Feared Following Last Night's Rioting

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 23.—The citizens of Benton, Ill., are still enraged today over the killing of two young American musicians by a band of drunken foreign miners. A riot is imminent. This was the substance of a report made today by telephone by Captain Smith of Company F, state guard, to Adjutant General Dickson here.

A company of state militia and the forces of the chief of police were in complete control of the city today, following a night of rioting, in which 25 or more foreign miners were severely beaten by a mob of Americans who gathered in the town square.

Two more companies of militia are held in reserve at the order of Governor Dunne transmitted by Adjutant General Dickson. Commanders of Company L at O. and G. at Effingham were ordered early today to get their men in readiness to depart for Benton at a moment's notice.

Last night's rioting was caused by the killing late Sunday night of two Americans and the wounding of a third by a crowd of drunken foreign miners, who attacked the trio as they were returning from a dance. Ewell Hutchinson and Quincy Drummons were beaten to death and Harmon Wyant's right arm was broken with a pistol shot and his head badly beaten.

AWAY TO SCHOOL

The two sons of Robert W. Keyes, 327 South Sixteenth street, left Sunday for Tennessee where they will attend a military academy.

WISCONSIN LOSES ANOTHER PLAYER

Walter Shirley, Generally Conceded to Be Strong for University Half-back Goes to Montana

The Wisconsin football team, which through loss of old men promises to be weak this year, lost another man when, Walter Shirley, son of E. R. Shirley, 102 South Ninth street, decided to attend the university of Montana at Missoula, Mont., this year.

Mr. Shirley and "Tubby" Keeler, were La Crosse boys who made good showings with the gridiron squad and Keeler landed on the big eleven throughout the season. Keeler's effective work as left half on the freshman squad, was generally believed to make him first on the eligible list for that position on the regular this season.

Coach Wilce, who is handling the university team and who formerly coached the local high school team, is having hard sledding in landing men this year.

Gelatt and Bright, both halfbacks on last year's team, have graduated and now that Shirley leaves there are but few men really eligible for their positions.

During the year that Mr. Shirley spent at Madison he studied agriculture, specializing on beef cattle raising.

He leaves for Montana tomorrow.

LEAVES FOR EAST

Miss Mary O'Connell, daughter of Bernard O'Connell, 109 South Fourth street, left on the Burlington at 10:38 last night for Washington, D. C., where she will attend an exclusive school for young ladies.

EXPECT A LARGE CROWD AT OPENING OF FAIR TODAY

Indications Point to Record-breaking Season for the Inter-State Fair This Year

MAY TURN DOWN SOME ENTRIES

Grounds Already Crowded and Late Comers May Not Get Chance to Show Stock

AVIATOR MARKS OUT HIS COURSE

Stakes Out Lane for "Target" to Use When He Alights from His Flights

With the grounds so crowded with exhibits that late comers may have to be refused entry, the Interstate fair opened this morning and the directors of the fair association are jubilant over indications that the fair will set a new record in attendance and general success.

Even this morning there was a goodly number of visitors strolling through the exhibition building and examining the midway, and by noon visitors from out of town were beginning to pour through the big gates. The turnstiles were clicking with a regularity that delighted the officials.

Travel is heavy

The crowd for the first day of the fair is always composed of local people for the most part, but the downtown streets were filled with out of town guests this morning, and the railroads reported heavy travel from nearby towns to this city.

Practically all of La Crosse will be at the fair this afternoon. Today is La Crosse day, as has been the custom since the fair was inaugurated, and all of the city's business houses and manufacturing plants closed their doors at noon in order to give their employees a chance to visit the exhibit.

The fair grounds today presented an animated view, as the finishing touches were made. Owners hung almost lovingly over the pens of blooded stock, putting the last "high plane polish" on the coats of cattle and horses and even the enormous, complacent swine. In the center of the big oval of the half-mile track Aviator Niles, who will exhibit the stantility of the Curtiss aeroplane and his own intrepidity, was engaged with his mechanic in staking out a long course for his guidance in alighting.

Stakes Out Landing

Picking out the level part of the rolling paddock, Niles and his helper appeared with arms full of colored flags. There were sixty of them.

GIRLS! GIRLS! YOU MUST TRY THIS!

DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

For 25 cents you can make your hair lustrous, fluffy, and abundant.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

Your Kitchen Heating Problem
Garbage Problem

Incidentally, it enables you to cheat the High Cost of Living out of many a Dollar

You simply set a "CABINET" Range—and a Garbage-Burning-Kitchen-Heater side by side

As the illustration shows, these two modern appliances are built to work together and to occupy very little space.

With the "Cabinet" range itself, you can cook the different foods that make up a dinner, all at once with one fire burning.

With a little 15x16 inch Coke Kitchen Heater installed alongside the range, you can keep your kitchen warm and comfortable in the coldest winter weather.

Also the gas-fire-starting blast in the fire box will actually enable you to burn and turn into heat, much of the rubbish and garbage you now carry out in the cold and wet to the back alley.

LAUDS WISCONSIN
AS DAIRY STATE

Speaker at Refrigeration Congress Says Fourth of All Butter in U. S. Will Come from Here

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Wisconsin's remarkable development as a butter-making state was the theme of Carl E. Lee, assistant in dairy husbandry at the Wisconsin college of agriculture, in an address at the convention of the International Association of Refrigeration here today. He made the prediction that from one-fourth to one-fifth of all the butter made in the United States will, within a few years, bear the label "Made in Wisconsin." He supported this prophecy by enumerating the factors which have contributed and will contribute to its development.

In 1909, he said, Wisconsin furnished all of the butter consumed by one-sixth of the nation's population. He has estimated that had the output of the Badger creameries and farm dairies for that year alone been loaded into refrigerator cars, each containing 756 sixty-pound tubs, it would have required a train nineteen miles long to move this vast product to market.

MILD EPIDEMIC OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Infantile paralysis has broken out in a mild form in Grant county in Lancaster and vicinity, according to reports received at the office of the state board of health. Two deaths have been reported and ten cases are now under surveillance. The condition has become so acute that the state board has sent Dr. L. E. Spencer of Wausau, the inspector for the board, to Lancaster, and further attention will be given to the subject when the board holds its special meeting Friday.

"Infantile paralysis is contagious," said Dr. O. A. Harper, secretary of the board, today. "The disease germs are carried by the ordinary barn fly and by dust."

CLAIMS TOBACCO
CAUSED DEATH

OWOSSO, Mich., Sept. 23.—A unique defense is being made by the Eastern Michigan Power company in the $10,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Dora Packingham as administrator of the estate of her late husband, Robert Packingham.

Packingham, while working in the substitution of the Consumers' Power company, two years ago, was handling a green scantling when the upper end of it fell against a conduit carrying a high tension wire. He fell and died twenty minutes later, supposedly from the electric shock, as the end of the scantling was blackened where it struck the conduit. The defense is endeavoring to show, however, that the shock must have been very slight and that the real cause of death was the lodgment in Packingham's windpipe of a quid of tobacco he was chewing when he suddenly threw back his head.

STRICKEN ON TRACK
GROUND TO DEATH

RHINELANDER, Wis., Sept. 23.—While walking on the Soo track near Armstrong creek, George Stone, aged 60, of this city, was stricken with heart failure and fell in front of a passenger train. He was ground to pieces. Stone was on his way to secure medical aid for a friend.

MOTHER SAVES BOY
DRIVES OFF BULL

BELLE FOURCHE, N. D., Sept. 23.—Only the vigorous aid of his mother, who used a club with telling effect, saved the life of 16 year old Henry Clark of Oak Creek, over the Wyoming line, when an enraged bull attacked him. The boy had been knocked down and gored by the animal when Mrs. Clark arrived, beat off the bull and summoned aid.

MORE THAN DOZEN
HURT IN WRECK

EVERETT, Wash., Sept. 23.—More than a dozen passengers on Great Northern overland train No. 4, were injured on Monday, one fatally and two seriously, near Mukileto, south of Everett, through the breaking of an axle of the tender and the ditching of the locomotive, tender and baggage car.

Granted Insurance
After Lung Trouble

As many cases of Lung Troubles start with a cold or a cough, the best advice that can be given is to get rid of the cold or cough as quickly as possible. Otherwise more serious troubles are likely to follow. If the medicines you are now taking do not bring relief, try Eckman's Alternative, the remedy for Throat and Lung Troubles, which has stood the test of time. Investigate this case:

237 Dean St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
"Dear Sirs: About a year and a half ago my health rapidly failed until at the end of six months my weight had fallen to 129 pounds. I was troubled with night sweats, a severe cough and was very weak. About this time I consulted a physician, who told me my lungs were affected. Not satisfied, I went to another doctor, who, after examining me, said that I was in the first stages of consumption. At this point I started to take Eckman's Alternative. The night sweats stopped almost immediately, my cough became looser and gradually disappeared. My weight is now 142 pounds and my physician has pronounced me perfectly sound—which, together with the fact that I have been accepted by two different insurance companies for insurance, makes me sure of my entire recovery by Eckman's Alternative."
(Affidavit) W. E. GEE.

Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by Geo. E. Mariner, Chas. Beyerlag and other leading druggists. Daily
Short Story

THAT LETTER TO JOE

By BRYANT C. ROGERS

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

No matter when or how Joe Ralston and Florence Taylor became acquainted. A girl of twenty and a young man a year older will find each other in some way if the distance is not over ten miles and the walking good.

She lived in town, and he was the son of a farmer living three miles away. Joe's father was able to hire help and Joe had been to college and owned a piece of land on which he was making experiments.

It is sad in a way to have to record the fact that after meeting Miss Florence he wasn't half as interested in his experiments as he was in her. Every day or two he had an errand that took him to the village, and if he did not catch sight of the girl herself he at least had the consolation of seeing the hired girl sweeping off the veranda. Such affairs grow and progress. There came a time when the mother of the girl asked:

"Florence, isn't young Ralston calling here very often?"

"Oh, I don't know," was the reply. "I think the neighbors are beginning to talk a little."

"What can they say?"

"That it's a case of love."

"How mean of them! Mr. Ralston knows that I am interested in his farming experiments."

"Just what's he experimenting on now?"

"Why—why you know what milkweed is, of course?"

"Yes."

"When ripe it exudes a sticky fluid—about half a teacup full to a stalk. Mr. Ralston has got an idea that if he can save this liquid and boil it up with mutton tallow he can bring out a new pepsin chewing gum that will make him a millionaire."

The mother turned her face away with a smile.

"Florence, you may give the young man my order in advance for one thousand pounds of his milkweed gum! I like to encourage experiments!"

"But, mother—"

"And there will be no objections to a wedding when it gets as far along as that. I shall be proud of a pepsin son-in-law."

And about the same time Joe Ralston's father said to him as the young man was greasing the buggy for a drive to town:

"Going after shingle nails, Joe?"

"Why, father, I might get you some," was the reply.

"Oh, it's you that needs 'em. Get about a hundred kegs and nail your land down so that it will be here when you get over fooling around!"

Joe looked at his father a minute.

"Were you the same when you were a young man?"

"Guess I was."

"And had to get married to cure it?"

"Yep."

"I haven't asked her yet."

"Well, don't waste any more time. A young man in love hasn't the judgment of a calf, and he can't settle down long enough to eat a boiled dinner. Get married and bring your wife here to roost and we'll make the old farm home."

And then came an old maid to upset the apple carts of two people. Her name was Hannah Clay. She lived in town, but had been visiting at a farm house two miles out. She had seen the sunflowers come and go many, many times. She had seen other girls marry. She had waited and hoped until she had grown sour on the world around her. She had never been introduced to young Ralston, but as he came driving along she called to him to give her a seat in his buggy to town.

Providence helps old maids sometimes. Hannah Clay had heard that the young man was paying attention to Florence Taylor. Florence Taylor had once snubbed her.

"This is Mr. Ralston, I'm sure?" she simpered.

"Correct, ma'am."

"I am glad to meet you, for I've heard so many people speak of you. Please drive slow, for I want quite a long chat with you."

The horse was pulled down to a walk.

"You are a young man that any girl should be proud to call her lover."

"Thanks," was the ambiguous reply.

"You are certain to become a very prominent man."

"Ahem!"

"Unless your career is wrecked through your own gulleitlessness. You are very young and innocent, and may not see the peril ahead of you."

"I don't think I shall go into politics."

"Oh, but I didn't mean that. There is something far more perilous in your case, and that is matrimony."

"Just how do you mean?"

"Why, getting the wrong sort of girl, of course. Nine girls out of every ten are flirts. There are others that are all smiles and honey while being courted, but when they become wives they are shrews."

"Is that so?" asked the young man.

"It surely is. There is one young lady in town you should especially beware of. I will not name her, but I do hope that you will not fall under her influence. If you do nothing but sorrow can come of it. She charms like a serpent."

She was coaxed for the name, but she would not give it. Well she knew that it would be guessed right enough within half an hour.

In driving to the village they met several people both knew, and in the

FREE—Get This Diaper

Pattern and Save Your Baby From Pins

The Pinless, Buttonless Diaper has come and these stores have gladly volunteered to give the Pattern Free to every mother and every nurse. Half the tears and half the suffering of your little baby will be banished when you use this comfortable, convenient style of diaper that you can cut and fold yourself from this Free Pattern.

Think of it—not a pin to come unfastened and jab and stab the helpless little child. Babies have suffered tortures from the pricks and scratches of the deadly "safety" pin that is safe only as long as nothing unusual happens to unfasten it. Babies have been poisoned by pin-stabs and scratches.

The new Pinless Pattern of Diapers is not for sale—not a cent will be taken for it—but every mother and every nurse may have the pattern absolutely free. And this style of Diaper is scientific—has extra thickness where needed, but not a particle of bulkiness to get on a baby's sensitive nerves or make him bow-legged, as less scientifically cut diapers may do.

Free at These Stores

These stores will be glad to give you this new Pinless and Buttonless Pattern of Diapers Free of all cost and without obligation—simply ask or send for one.

outskirts who should they encounter but Mrs. Taylor, the mother of Florence. And when it was seen that they would meet her the old maid cuddled up to the young man in the most loving manner and laughed in triumph.

Young Ralston had made up his mind to propose matrimony that evening. The fat was in the fire now. The mother would return home to tell her daughter what she had seen, and though he had no evidence that Miss Florence was of a jealous disposition he realized that a cold wave awaited him. The mother did go home and tell, and Hannah Clay bragged around that she had got even.

It took Miss Florence Taylor of the town of Webberville, county of Claire and state of Ohio, just twenty minutes to write a letter to Mr. Joe Ralston of the same locality to the effect that he need not tire his legs by climbing the veranda steps any more. Half a minute to lick on the stamp and give it a swat with her fist, and fifteen minutes to go to the postoffice and back! Joe Ralston's case was settled as surely as if he were at the bottom of the sea. He didn't even call.

If Providence helps old maids sometimes, it gets them by the neck other times. Hannah Clay had not been home an hour when she was seized with a chill, and the doctor said it might terminate seriously. She feared to go to the grave with a burdened conscience, and therefore sent for Miss Florence and confessed her awful sin.

Joe Ralston was an innocent victim. He had been written an awful, awful letter. He might commit suicide over it. Miss Florence ran the postoffice. Yes, the letter was there, but it could not be handed back to her. Uncle Sam doesn't his postoffices that way. Perhaps she slept like an angel all night, perhaps not at all. Perhaps she blasted Hannah Clay and all of old maids higher than any alibi yet reached by an aviator, and perhaps she had nothing to say. At rate, she was at the postoffice by o'clock next morning, and she was waiting when Joe Ralston drove. He was really after the shingle at this time.

"Joe," said the girl as she approached him, "I wrote you yesterday."

"Good girl."

"The letter is here."

He opened the box and got it handed to her.

"You see—" she began, when interrupted.

"Forget it, please."

The old maid was invited to sit at her wedding, but she was at she might get another chill.

"You see, it was this way: Dollie's grandpa had been visiting at her house and when he went home he gave the little girl a half dollar with which to buy anything she liked."

"Dollie's mother promised to take her to the biggest toyshop in the town and one afternoon they started out, Dollie dressed in her best clothes and elapsing the silver half dollar fast in one fat hand."

"She was a very charming little girl, and perhaps that was the reason a salesman in the shop took a great deal of trouble in showing them all the things in the place."

"He showed them all kinds of dolls, and the little girl looked at them. 'Fifty cents isn't a great deal of money, after all, when you come to a puzzled every minute.'"

"Why don't you buy a book?" her mother suggested. She hoped I would select some nice quiet toy."

"I don't think I care for books," Dollie said politely, and then her mother called her to look at a funny puzzle. The puzzle wasn't exactly what she was looking for either. She would have liked a toy piano or an electric tin mouse down in front of her. The mouse had a spring inside of its body and would run around in a very lifelike manner when it was wound and she wasn't sure that it was not really alive."

"Dolly turned up her small nose at the tin toy. 'No,' she objected; winding up. And mother jumps on chairs when they run over the floor."

"Dollie's mother got red, for the salesman giggled. She took Dollie's money that day."

AN ANTI-TOXIN FOR MRS. PANKHURST

In Illinois, where most recently the suffragists established themselves, the coming of Mrs. Pankhurst is taken seriously. To receive her and entertain her, as on her former visit, would be to suggest to American men that American women sympathize with the English militants. The Illinois women believe they and their sisters in other states are on trial before the men, that the latter are fairly open to conviction, and that conduct that might be interpreted as approving or even condoning the practices of the Pankhurst school would serve materially to prejudice the men against the movement.

Mrs. Anna Shaw, agreeing with the above, comes to bat with a means of notifying American men that Mrs. Pankhurst's program is under the ban here, without discourtesy to the Englishwoman. Mrs. Shaw declares that Mrs. Pankhurst has never entertained any high official of the American suffragettes visiting London, although opportunity has been abundant; that the organization she heads has never officially recognized the presence of an American leader in England. Therefore, urges Mrs. Shaw, American suffragettes are under no obligation to officially recognize Mrs. Pankhurst. She need not be permitted to make speeches, under the auspices of the suffragists, she need not be entertained by them. To be civil in personal encounters with the Londoner, to extend her every social courtesy not likely to be construed as official—that is as far as Mrs. Shaw would go.

The point seems well taken. If this policy is strictly followed the visit of Mrs. Pankhurst will be innocuous.

A WORD ABOUT OUR INCOME TAX LAW

Collier, in discussing the future of the democratic party as dependent upon its willingness to father sensibly radical legislation, says:

"The (national) income tax in itself is not radical. Senator Root said on the floor of the senate that he has long favored it and worked for it. But the particular kind of income tax that the democrats passed may fairly be called radical, and not very intelligently radical. The placing of the exemption so high (the house made it $4,000 and the senate $3,000) may turn out in the light of history to be very unfortunate. Wisconsin is an intelligently radical state; when it adopted an income tax it made every man pay whose income is above $1,000. Exempting persons with incomes of $3,000 or $4,000 is class legislation in favor of a very able-bodied class."

That Mark Sullivan, who wrote the above, is familiar with the Wisconsin income tax law one cannot doubt, but nevertheless his statement is misleading. The Wisconsin income tax taxes one man with an $800 income and exempts another with a $3,000 income—and it is fair. A man with a wife and nine children, all the children being under age, eighteen, is entitled to an exemption of $400 for the wife and $200 for each of the children, a total exemption of $2,200. If that man's income is $2,999, or less, he pays no income tax, although his neighbor, without family, may pay a tax on an income of $800.

The man with the wife and children is exempt for two reasons: in rearing a family he is doing a service to the state; the rearing of the family is a burden that offsets the excess of his income over that of his neighbor.

It is a just law, "intelligently radical."

THE NATION CAN NOT SHIRK THIS PROBLEM

The thing that John T. Alexander put up to us so hard and straight in his twenty-minutes talk at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday cannot be evaded and will not be forgotten. We are compelled to ask ourselves if we are rushing to the fall of Rome. Are we, in the alternate ascendancy of morality and carnality, moving from the former to the latter?

The sound and wholesome development of the United States and Canada, Mr. Alexander attributes to the moral and spiritual fiber of a people revolting against religious and civic tyranny. To conserve what they built, he urges, we must save whole the foundation of purity and Christianity. To do so is the duty of Home School Church.

The social and economic revolution of the times has changed conditions in the home. The household tasks of the boys are no longer theirs; the discipline of our fathers is not there, and the faith of our fathers is not inculcated.

The school is legally barred from teaching religion, and without that morality becomes largely a matter of calculation. That the school cannot help more is indeed unfortunate if we accept Mr. Alexander's belief that the man or the woman is made in the "teen" age. And taking each his own experience, how can we question that character building is practically completed at twenty, that e'er then the kind of life that will be lived is fixed?

We have left the burden upon the church. It is not a phase of the national problem. It is the essence of all problems, the great world problem in which is merged every other. Would we purify government? We must raise the children right. Would we purge ourselves of social evils? We must raise the children right. Would we suppress the crimes of avarice? We must raise the children right.

That is the burden we have put upon the church. When men and women know the problem and realize its meaning, they will turn to the support of the church. And the re-assumption of the right attitude toward the church will lighten the church's load, for in the day when they are right with the church people will carry the burden of the children back to the home.

That ton of artificially colored jelly that the food inspectors condemned in Michigan can probably be worked up into the kind of ink furnished the public by all railroads and express offices.

Industrial statistics show that the manufacture of coffins is on the increase. This is undoubtedly due to either the automobile or the nearness of the deer hunting season.

New York jurors have been asked to censor two new underworld plays. The managers will probably see that all the jurymen are actors out of a job.

The young man who patronizes the building and loan association now will have his cellar full of something besides water in his old age.

The size of the mortgage on a man's home is sometimes determined by the horse-power of the automobile he drives.

Most of us are apt to take our own time, but the pickpocket will take anybody's.

Tried it on His Friend

A Boston man who frequently visits a scientific friend a short distance out of town once found him in his laboratory studying a dark brown substance spread out on a sheet of paper, according to the Houston Post. "I say, Jones," said the scientific person, when greetings had been duly exchanged, "would you mind letting me place a bit of this on your tongue? My taste has become sadly vitiated by trying all sorts of things." The professor took some of the substance under analysis and put it on his friend's tongue, whereupon the Boston man worked it around in his mouth for fully a minute, tasting it as though he might have sampled a choice confection. "Note any effect?" asked the professor. "No especial effect."

"It doesn't paralyze or prick your tongue?" "Not that I can detect." "I didn't think it would. There are no alkaloids in it then. How does it taste?" "Very bitter." "Very bitter, eh?" Then, after a pause, "All right, that will do." By this time the caller's curiosity was aroused. "What is it, anyhow?" he asked. "I don't know. That's what I am trying to find out. Some one around here has been poisoning horses with it."

It Was a Puzzle to Him

A man, who went away from home some time ago to attend a convention of church people, was struck with the beauty of the little town in which the gathering was held. He had plenty of time, and while wandering about walked into the village cemetery. It was a beautiful place, and he walked among the graves. He saw a monument, one of the largest in the cemetery, and read with surprise the inscription on it: "A Lawyer, and an Honest Man."

The man scratched his head, and looked at the monument again. He read the inscription over and over. Then he walked all around the monument and examined the grave closely. Another man in the cemetery approached and asked him: "Have you found the grave of an old friend?"

"No," said the main, "but I was wondering how they came to bury those two fellows in one grave."—National Monthly.

"And you spoke of other experiences of a like nature?" "I was presented to several of the crowned heads of Europe, talked with many of the great generals and noted diplomats and was granted an audience with the pope."

"Weren't you scared?" "Not at all."

"Then, if you are not afraid, I wish you would tell the head waiter that this salt box is empty."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegram.

NEW MEMBER CIVIL SERVICE BOARD

Hermon W. Craven.

Hermon W. Craven, who was recently appointed by President Wilson as a member of the U. S. civil service commission, comes from Seattle, Wash. He was born in Lancaster, Indiana, in 1860, was educated at the state university of Iowa and has been a resident of Seattle since 1890, where he was a member of the board of education and assistant prosecuting attorney of King county. He is the Republican member of the commission.

IN The WORLD OF WOMEN

More than 800 women have declared their intention of joining the battalion of women now being formed in France to share in the national defense of the country.

Mrs. Margaret Stannard, chairman of the Hospitality committee of the Mothers' Congress, has thus put into concrete form an answer to the question as to what those in the so-called feminist movement are fighting for: Advanced civilization; home improvement; protection of children; men trained for fatherhood; development of the executive in girls; higher standards and cleaner habits for men; the arousing of indolent women to a realization of their duties; the education of the girl of leisure to her opportunities and the vote to make the efforts effective.

The committee of women to aid Mayor Harrison and the city officials in a campaign to secure proper ventilation in nickel theaters and "movies" in Chicago has been appointed by Mrs. Harriet Taylor Treadwell, president of the Political Equality League, which is striving to improve conditions in these amusement places generally.

Gettin' on Wi' His Gowf.

"When can a person be said to have passed the novice stage in golf?" asks a Glasgow News correspondent. I have, says the editor, always regarded a knowledge of the rules and terminology of the game as fitting one to be classed above the beginner. But this is only my personal opinion. I heard another view expressed in the car recently. "Hoo's Mac gettin' on wi' his gowf noo?" asked one passenger of another. "Oh, fine," was the reply. "He's full fledged noo—he began coont in' his score last week."

Value of Character.

Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan emphasized character as a banker's most important asset, and recently Lord Cromer spoke of character as a government official's indispensable qualification, using these words: "I have always held that 75 per cent of the influence of British officials for good depends on character and only 25 per cent on brains. Mistakes arising from defective intelligence will generally admit of being rectified. Those which are due to defects of character are more often irremediable."

A Romance of Extraordinary Distinctions

The Marshal

"We will walk to the village together, Alessandro," the general decided, of a morning, in his sudden way, and shouted forthwith for "Moison! Ho there, Moison! The cloak and hat of monsieur the marquis!"

But before Jean Philippe had time to get to the door, the small person in homespun had fled like a rabbit and was back loaded with paraphernalia. He worked as faithfully as ever with the general at the great book, what times the general could spare now to work, away from his friend; he played with his might as always, yet there were many times when he would squat at a distance behind the chair of the visitor, motionless, while Alixe and Pietro tried vainly to lure him away. At the first sign of a service to be done for the marquis he was up and at it; always quicker, always more intelligent than the footman. The marquis could not help seeing these attentions and went through two or three stages of feeling about it—bored, irritated, amused, flattered. The lad trotted at his heels as unobtrusively as a small dog and it was not the marquis' nature—a gentle nature, if proud and reserved—to resist such determined devotion. So the little brown shadow made its way finally into slow friendliness.

"You have thrown a charm over my boy Francois, Alessandro," the general said, well pleased. And the marquis answered thoughtfully:

"It is a boy out of the common, I believe, Gaspard. At first I thought it a mistake that you should raise a child of his class to the place you have given him, but I see that you understand what you are about. He is worthy of a good fate."

"I believe he is worthy of any fate," the general said, "and I believe he will make his fate if he has a chance, a good one—perhaps a great one. He has uncommon stuff in him. I mean to give him his chance." And with that there was a conversation as to boys between the two friends.

The day came, after two months of such renewals of friendship when, on the next morning, the Marquis Zappi was due to start on his long journey to America. Out on the lawn, in the shadow of the beech trees he sat and watched his son playing ball with little Alixe. Then he was aware of Francois standing before him. The boy held something in his closed hand, and with that he opened his fingers and stretched it to the marquis. The marquis looked inquiringly at the yellow metal.

"What is this?" he asked; he was prepared now to be surprised by this boy about once in so often, so he simply suspended judgment as a thing unexpected.

"It is for you, Monsieur the Marquis," Francois smiled radiantly and continued to present the ten-franc piece.

The marquis, astounded, drew back with a shock of indignation. Was this peasant child offering him money? Francois went on happily, convinced that he was doing something worth while.

"But you may take it, Monsieur the Marquis; it is indeed for you. It is my own; the seigneur gave it to me on my birthday, and my father did not put it with the savings, but said it was to be mine to do with as I chose. I choose to give it to you, Monsieur the Marquis. So that you may have plenty of money."

"I know well what it is not to have enough money. It is a bad thing. And it is convenient when on a journey—money." He nodded his head, as man to man. "So, as it is mine, I give this to you."

The brown fist was outstretched, the gold piece glittering in it, and still the marquis stared speechless. Never in his life had any one presumed to offer him money. He looked up at the face of the little peasant; it shone with peace and good will; he put out his hand and took the gold piece and looked at it a long minute, and drew a leather case from his pocket and placed it within carefully, and put it away.

"Thank you, Francois," said the marquis. And then he considered again the shining little face. "Why have you done this, Francois?" he asked. "Why do you always—do so much for me?"

"Monsieur the Marquis," Francois spoke eagerly, "it is not much I have done before, only little things. This, I know it, is much, for it is a large sum of money and may be a great help to you. I am glad that, Monsieur the Marquis." By now Francois was squatting cross-legged at the feet of the marquis. "I do it because you did that thing."

Then the marquis was entirely bewildered. "Did that thing? What do you mean, Francois?"

"The thing in Russia, for my seigneur. When you saved the life of my seigneur."

"Oh," said the marquis and stared down at the boy anxiously explaining. "I have been afraid that I could never show you how I thanked you for the life of my seigneur. I am sorry that my seigneur sabbared you afterward, but that was a mistake. Monsieur the Marquis, you understand that it was a mistake?"

"Quite," said Monsieur the Marquis.

"You have forgiven my seigneur?" Francois demanded.

"There was nothing to forgive, Francois. It was, as you point out, a mistake."

"Yes, Monsieur the Marquis." The heels of Francois came down on the sod with a whack of satisfaction as he sprang to his feet. "So it is all arranged. Only that even the gold is not enough. But I will do more. I will be a friend of Pietro. That will please you, will it not?"

The marquis was silent. "But I know that. It is a good thing to be friends—with me. Any boy in the village of Vicques would be glad to be my friend, you know, Monsieur the Marquis. So it will be a good thing for Pietro. He is six months younger than I; I can teach him how to climb and how to fight and how to take care of himself. And I will, because of that thing you did. Because, too, I think well of Pietro and besides because of your kindness to me."

"My kindness to you?" "Yes, Monsieur the Marquis—because you have been so kind to me."

And the marquis, in the silence of his soul, was ashamed.

The next day he went. As they stood, gathered in the big carved doorway, he told them all good-bye and lifted his boy and held him without a word. As he set him down he turned toward the carriage, but in a flash he turned back as if by a sudden inspiration, and laid a hand on little Francois' shoulder.

"You will remember that you promised to be a friend to Pietro, Francois?"

"Yes, Monsieur the Marquis," the child answered gravely.

The marquis caught Pietro's hand and put it into Francois' and held the two little hands clasped so together in his own. "Always," he demanded.

"Always," Francois repeated quietly, and those who heard the word spoken believed it.

A Tax Suggestion

The difficulty British Chancellor Lloyd-George had in deciding what to tax and what to leave untaxed in this year's budget recalls the story of an earlier chancellor of the exchequer who was reduced to despair in similar circumstances, says the London Standard.

Finally he decided to consult a friend who had on several occasions helped him to find fresh sources of revenue, and having written to this friend he waited hopefully for his reply.

The friend's suggestion came by return of post. "Put a tax on umbrellas," he wrote, "and make the bishops order the prayer for rain to be read in all the churches."

RUSHFORD MINN

The old time friends and school mates of Mrs. Lillian Wakefield, a sister of Hugh Cooper, both of whom used to be residents of this city, were grieved to hear of her recent death at her home in Sheffield, Mass. Her death was caused by cancer, for which she had undergone a number of operations. She was born in Fillmore county and had made this city her home for many years, being for some time a teacher in our city schools. For the past twelve years she had made her home in the eastern states. She leaves, besides her husband, her father, G. W. Cooper, two brothers, Hugh and Dexter Cooper; one sister, Mrs. Maude C. Batchelor of La Crosse, Wis.; a son of her former husband, Hugh W. Satterlee and two stepsons, Howard and Ernest Wakefield. The remains were brought to La Crosse for burial, being accompanied by Mrs. Batchelor (who was sent for a short time before her sister died), Dr. Wakefield and Ernest Wakefield. Funeral services were held at the grave in Oak Grove cemetery last Sunday, Rev. Henry Faville officiating.

Three prizes will be given by the Rushford Farmers' Creamery company in order to stimulate a better and deeper interest in the dairy business in and around this city. Any farmer who believes his cow is the best around here can, by applying to Mr. Hamilton, instructor in agriculture in the city schools, or to Mr. Plonty, the creamery man, have his cow entered for the contest. But 18 entries can be taken.

As the farmers from this and surrounding communities are somewhat averse to coming up to the high school building to the bi-weekly meetings of the agricultural class of the school, the place of meeting has been changed to the city hall, as being the more central.

The fall festival program is now out and among all the varied means of killing Old Father Time "deader than a door nail," there should surely be a way which will appeal to the most exacting of people, as a glance at said program will show. Even the ladies are expected to take a large part in the fun making, as witnessed last Sunday, Rev. Henry Faville officiating.

ness the prizes given for ladies' hitching contest and race and ladies' corn husking contest. Things of interest, from bee keeping to beef production will be discussed by those who have made the subject one of special study.

Eber Rember and family have left for Silverton, Oregon, where they will make their home.

Mr. Albrant has been a recent Minneapolis visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hanson are the guests of relatives in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Black River Falls, Wis. Due, doubtless, to misinformation, it was stated in a La Crosse daily of last Wednesday that the Rushford band boys had passed through that city on Tuesday enroute to Lee, Minn., to take part in the "home coming week" at that place. The band boys all hailed from the neighboring burg, Bratsburg, and were accompanied by their pastor, the Rev. N. S. Maggleson, we understand. This is the second time that the Bratsburg band has been down to Lee, which, by the way, is in Illinois, not Minnesota.

Mr. L. P. Helmey, the father of Miss Marcia Helmey, an instructor in our city schools, is in this vicinity, as a guest at the Sorum home. Mr. Helmey was one of our early settlers and will be remembered by a great many.

That the young ladies of Peterson are firm in the belief that an up-to-date education is one of the great essentials, is evidenced by the fact that four of them from the village and surrounding country have gone down to Jewell, Iowa, to attend college. They are the Misses Ella Ensborg, Julia Boyum, Mary Agrimson and Laura Highum.

The Peterson Herald, under the management of the up-to-date hustler, Mr. Carl Smaby, has come to the front with as fine an equipment for getting out a "dandy" newspaper as any within a very wide radius of miles. We learn that Rev. Saevig, pastor of the Peterson Lutheran church, is to go down to Harmony next Saturday to take part in the dedication of the new Lutheran church recently erected there, also he will remain to take part in the Kribs-meeting to be held there next Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Mindrum have gone for a short visit to Nerstrom, this state, where they will be the guests of Mr. Mindrum's brother. Mrs. Sarah Stage has been a recent guest of the David Otis home, a few miles northwest of this city.

Mr. D. J. Tew has gone to Painesville to visit relatives there.

Mrs. Lizzie Johnson and little daughters of Mapleton, Minn., are the guests of Mrs. Johnson's sister, Mrs. Carl Berg of Ferry street. Other guests of the Berg home are Mrs. May Luskow of Minot, N. D., and her little son. Mrs. Luskow is a daughter of Mrs. Lizzie Johnson and her small son is a great grandchild of Mrs. Gulick Halverson of this city.

Among those who attended the Winona fair last week were Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Johnson and H. Medhaug of Brooklyn and Ed Mohan of this vicinity.

Alfred Sundby has gone to Peoria where he will again take up his studies at the Bradley Polytechnical school. The many friends of Dr. Stocking, who for some years was a valued physician of this city, will be deeply grieved to hear of his serious illness at his home in Texas. What the malady is with which he is affected is not at present known, for a certainty, but whatever it may prove to be, we earnestly hope that it may have no fatal results.

U. S. PRIVATE IS BARON IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, Sept. 22.—By the death of Baron de Frayne, a private soldier in the United States army, becomes an Irish baron and the possessor of 30,000 acres of Irish land. Arthur Reginald French, son of Baron de Frayne, by his first wife, quit the British army to go to America, where he enlisted in the Eighth infantry regiment. The baron, who was 58 years old, died after a long illness.

SECOND WRECK BLOCKS TRAFFIC

Freight Cars Jack-knife Shortly After No. 55 Is Ditched in Milwaukee Yards

A serious delay on the main transcontinental line of the Milwaukee threatened here yesterday when two wrecks occurred at almost the same time.

Following the derailing of Milwaukee mail train No. 55 yesterday morning at 10:45 two freight cars that were being switched in the east yards on the north side were ditched and piled together on the track.

North side officials are of the opinion that the sudden cold weather was the cause of both wrecks. A car of flour and an empty freight car were being run into a siding following their arrival from the west. As the switch engine pushing them made the turn into the switch and applied the air, the cars "jack-knifed."

The front end of the rear car and the back end of the first car raised several feet in the air when the air brakes were applied. The wrecker that was busy at work moving the disabled engine of No. 55 was shortly put into play and the two cars moved.

Following the derailment of the engine of No. 55 it was found that the pony trucks on the front end were badly damaged. The huge engine was taken into the round house and will probably be repaired here by the company's local machinists.

Fast mail No. 55 was the first train to run to the south side this morning. It is hoped to have the tracks in proper shape again before tonight.

FIRE THREATENS "Q" RESTAURANT

A burning gasoline stove in the Burlington lunch counter at Grand Crossing at 10:15 this morning threatened for a time to destroy the place, but the flames were put out before fire department No. 4 could arrive. The stove had just been refilled. A quantity of the gasoline had escaped and run over the outside of the stove. When a match was touched the oil sprang into flames.

PLAN PLOW CONTEST

OLD FASHIONED SOD TURNING MATCH TO BE FEATURE OF VIROQUA DEMONSTRATION

The farmers of Vernon county who attend the demonstration meeting to be held on the county farm near Viroqua Sept. 25 will be invited to participate in an old fashioned plowing contest, experienced plowmen acting as judges and possibly engaging in an exhibition match to demonstrate correct methods of handling the plow and turning the sod or stubble. This and the crop demonstrations to be given during the day will be under the supervision of C. E. Butters, superintendent of the Vernon county asylum farm, and C. P. Norgord of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin.

Vernon is one of the leading dairy and stock raising counties in the state, which makes the growing of forage and other milk and meat producing crops doubly important. The last census listed nearly 3,900 Vernon county farms upon which studs, herds or flocks are being kept, and valued the livestock of that county at considerably over $3,000,000.

Pains All Over

Mrs. S. J. Kintner writes from Mark Center, O.: "Before taking CARDUI I could not be on my feet half an hour at a time. I suffered from a pain in my side and pains all over. I have taken nearly 6 bottles of the medicine, and now I sleep well, and can walk all day. The pain in my side is all gone, and I am in better health than for the past 5 years. The medicine is excellent for stomach disorders. I am giving CARDUI to my young daughters with results. I recommend CARDUI to my friends, for I would like all our sisters to know what it will do for them." It is almost sure to help you.

Keeps Your Stove

"Always Ready for Company"
A bright, clean, glossy stove is the pride of every housekeeper. It is hard to keep a stove nice and shiny unless Black Silk Stove Polish is used. Here is the reason: Black Silk Stove Polish sticks right to the iron. It does not rub off or dust off. Its shine lasts times longer than the shine of any other polish. You only need to polish your stove once in a while, yet your stove will be cleaner, brighter and better looking than it has been since you first bought it.

BLACK SILK STOVE POLISH

on your parlor stove, kitchen stove or gas stove. Get a can from your hardware or stove dealer. If you do not find it better than any other polish you have ever used before, your dealer will refund your money. But we are sure you will agree with the thousands of up-to-date women who are now using Black Silk Stove Polish and who say it is the best stove polish ever made.

LIQUID OR PASTE ONE QUALITY

Be sure to get the genuine. Black Silk Stove Polish costs you no more than the ordinary polish. It keeps your grates, registers, fenders and stoves bright and free from rusting. BLACK SILK AIR-DRYING ENAMEL is free with each can of enamel only. Use BLACK SILK METAL POLISH for ware, nickel, tinware or brass. It works easily, and leaves a brilliant surface. It is equal for use on automobiles.

PROMINENT LAWYER
GETS FOUR MONTHS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 23.—Believing his sentence to be heavier than his offense warranted, Captain Francis J. Borchardt, well known attorney and justice of the peace, sentenced to four months in the house of correction, after he pleaded guilty to the charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, announced he will appeal his case. He was sentenced Saturday after serious charges had been preferred against him by five young girls, the youngest twelve and the eldest fourteen.

CRIMINAL TRAMP
KILLS CONDUCTOR

LIMON, Col., Sept. 23.—Scores of armed men in autos, in buggies and on foot yesterday made up a posse which, with a pack of bloodhounds, searched for the tramp who Sunday shot and killed Conductor Samuel E. Marts, of the Rock Island road, while his train was standing on a siding here. Early today no traces of the slayer had been found.
Brakeman Norman Reed found the man clinging to the rods of a car. He ordered him to move on and the man responded by drawing a revolver and robbing Reed of $100 and a gold watch. Marts pursued the tramp across the field, finally cornering him behind a tree. Without warning the tramp opened fire and three bullets penetrated Marts' body, killing him instantly.

CONFESSES CRIME
COMMITTED IN 1909

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 23.—District Attorney John W. Barrett, and Sheriff Harley Hamel went to Philadelphia to question Jacob Wolfson, a prisoner in that city who says he murdered Anna Schumacher in a cemetery, near this city in 1909.
J. R. McVean, a farmer living in the town of Greece, where the murder took place, has been shown a photograph of the man who confesses the murder and recognized Wolfson as a man who was employed by him at the time the tragedy occurred. McVean said Wolfson was absent from his home several hours at the time the girl was murdered. So many facts corroborate the story of the Philadelphia prisoner that it is quite generally believed that Wolfson knows too much to be innocent.

PRESCRIPTION AIDS
CHRONIC SUFFERERS

Sickness Caused by Impure Blood is Easily Relieved

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a doctor's prescription of many years, are a tonic that have been of the greatest benefit in obstinate diseases caused by impure blood. These pills build up the blood; the restored blood burns up the poisons and normal health follows. In no disease does the blood show more altering and thinning than in rheumatism. No permanent relief is possible until the blood is restored and the rheumatic poisons are cast out.
Good digestion is impossible without a supply of rich red blood. When the blood is thin and poor, the food remains undigested in the stomach and ferments, causing gas on the stomach. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make the blood rich and red and the stomach trouble disappears.

IMPORTANT WITNESS IN THE BIXBY TRIAL

Kitty Phillips.

Miss Kitty Phillips, a twenty-year-old girl, is one of the principal witnesses against millionaire George H. Bixby, of Long Beach, Cal., accused of assisting in luring young girls to questionable resorts. Bixby was indicted some weeks ago by a grand jury and his trial is now on in Los Angeles.

Kidney Diseases
In spite of popular opinion to the contrary, kidney diseases (except in case of stone) seldom cause pain. That is one of the reasons why so large a proportion of the population dies of kidney and associated diseases. The kidneys can be almost "used up" before the owner gets any intimation pointing to the direct trouble. A large proportion of the disease is discovered in insurance or other examinations; not sought because the patient feels ill.

By good, general care, regulation of what is eaten and drunk, it's possible for quite a poor pair of kidneys to meet requirements. In fact, ordinary healthy kidney will take care of ordinary demands. The disease is easily discovered by simple tests. People getting along in years will do well to consult a physician at definite intervals for a thorough examination, just as most of us now go to the dentist for an examination of our teeth before they actually begin to ache. Even if it is impossible to cure the disorder, it is entirely possible, with proper, hygienic living and proper diet, to live out one's natural life, and in some instances, to enjoy better health under these regulations than was ever experienced before.

Kidney and other diseases of so-called degenerative type are on the increase in this country. Perhaps the report that the consumption of alcoholic beverages is likewise on the increase may be more than a mere coincidence.

The amount and character of foods eaten probably have as much or more to do with it than has alcohol. As physical work lessens, appetite lessens. As appetite lessens more attention is given to seasoning, to buying tender meats, and to other means of stimulating the jaded appetite. The result is that more fuel is loaded in than is needed. Then the furnace pipes don't last as long as they were intended.

POWDER MILL BLAST
KILLS FIVE MEN

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 23.—Five men were killed and several injured when a mixing house at the Dupont Powder mill at Gibbstown, N. J., blew up, early yesterday. The gelatin mixing plant was blown to atoms. Every window in Gibbstown was broken and the town was shaken as by an earthquake. Earthen banks about other buildings of the powder mills saved them from destruction.

WIN MUNICIPAL VICTORY

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 23.—Municipal ownership won a big victory in Ohio today when the supreme court dismissed an injunction suit brought by W. B. Drum, a citizen of Cleveland, to restrain that city from issuing $1,000,000 worth of bonds for a municipal lighting plant. Under the ruling the city can now proceed with the bond issue and the building of the plant, which was tied up by the suit.

MRS. WORRY—High Ceilings Are In Style This Fall

By C. A. Voight

THIS LOOKS ALLRIGHT

OH DEAR NO—THE CEILING IS TOO LOW

HOW ABOUT THIS PLACE?

—NO—THE CEILING IS NOT HIGH ENOUGH

LET'S TAKE A LOOK

NO—THIS IS NO GOOD—THE DOOR ISN'T LARGE ENOUGH

ADT. FOR RENT

GEE WHIZ—I'M NOT GONNER LOOK ANY MORE—NOTHING SUITS YOU

OH DEAR IT'S SO HARD TO FIND A COMFORTABLE APARTMENT

YOU KNOW JOHN—THIS YEAR THEY'RE GOING TO WEAR THOSE EIFFEL TOWER PLUMES

Protecting Telegraph Poles.
To protect telegraph poles from rotting in the ground a new French practice is to surround their ends with earthenware pipes and fill the pipes with melted resin and sand, which solidifies and becomes waterproof.

Proper View of Competition.
If all men could see competition as it really is, and not magnify and distort it in their imaginations, the same competition would be better. The same work would be easier and the same men would be happier.

Origin of "Whisky."
The word Usk is an Anglicized form of the Welsh word wysg, a Celtic word meaning water. It is connected with the Irish word uisgue, from which the Saxon gets the word whisky.

Reason for it.
Grandma—"In my day girls were more modest and reserved than they are now." May—"That's because you were taught that modesty and reserve were more alluring to the men."—Judge.

Part of Life's Irritations.
Some men appear to enjoy causing inconvenience because they think they are such graceful apologizers.

Sized Up.
Crawford—"I never thought him an educated man, but I see he's just received an honorary degree from one of the colleges." Crabshaw—"Oh, he's probably done something that would get him a vaudeville engagement."—Judge.

Dog Had Appetite for Chicken.
A chicken-stealing dog, in the Dumfries (Scotland) district, recently occasioned some anxiety to a number of ten keepers. On a thorough search being made a number of fowls were recovered buried in a field. Some fowls were eaten, and those not required for immediate use were hidden. It was discovered that the cause of the trouble was a large black Labrador dog, which has been roaming the district at will for several weeks.

He Listened to All.
Fontenelle listened to everything and he offended no one by disputing anything. At the close of his life he was asked the secret of his success, and he replied that it was by observing two maxims. "Everybody may be right" and "Everything may be so."

High Prices for Gruesome Relics.

Watching The Scoreboard

(By Hal Sheridan)

Connie Mack having turned the trick and clinched the American league pennant and Ty Cobb having slugged out a big lead in the three cornered race for batting honors, the questions now are, will the Yanks hold on to seventh place and the Naps to second.

Being joined by Cleveland, the Yanks lead the St. Louis Browns by a single point.

The Naps broke the tie for second place while St. Louis was trimming Washington. The Senators lost on an error.

As his offering in the general settlement of affairs, Ty Cobb connected for four hits in eight times at bat during the double header with the errors in spite of the fact that Detroit was shut out in both games.

Joe Jackson hit safely once in three times up. Speaker was idle with the Red Sox.

In the double bill which clinched the pennant for them the Athletics scored but five runs but Detroit was held runless throughout the eight-innings.

Just when the pessimists were declaring Eddie Plank all in, he came through and stood the Tigers on their head. Relieving Pennock in the second Plank went seven innings without allowing a run. He was touched for five hits, but they were too far apart to be of much satisfaction to the Tigers.

Alexander held the Cubs to four hits and shut them out in the first game of the double header, but the Phillies could not turn the trick in the second.

The Boston Braves took another wallop at the down-trodden Cardinals, but they might not have been able to avoid it if they had wanted to. The Cards pulled 7 infield errors and one in the outfield.

MAKES NOISE LIKE SQUIRREL—IS SHOT

FAYETTEVILLE, Ill., Sept. 23.—Edward Laffler made a noise like a squirrel and was shot by a fellow hunter, Herbert Breuhan, whom he attempted to fool. Attracted by the bark of a "squirrel," Breuhan saw twigs moving in a realistic way and fired point blank at them.

Laffler threw up his hands, exclaiming: "You've got me, Herbert," and fell unconscious. He may not recover.

Mackmen Make Sure of the World Series Plunder by Taking Two from Detroit

AMERICAN LEAGUE
 Philadelphia, 4-1; Detroit, 0-0
 PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—The Athletics yesterday clinched the American league pennant for 1913 by defeating Detroit in a double header. Detroit lost the first, 4 to 0, and the second 1 to 0. In the first game Bush and Dauss pitched good ball, but the Athletics hit better when men were on the bases.

The second game was a pitchers' battle between Dubuc and Plank, who relieved Pennock in the second inning. The Athletics won the game in the second inning. Scores: First game—R H E Detroit.....00000000—0 8 1 Philadelphia.....02101000x—4 8 1 Batteries: Dauss and Gibson; Bush and Schang. Second game—R H E Detroit.....00000000—0 7 0 Philadelphia.....01000000x—1 5 0 Batteries: Dubuc and Gibson; Bennock, Plank and Lapp.

Cleveland, 5; New York, 4
 NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Although the Yanks outbatted the Naps nearly three to one yesterday they lost to the visitors. Score: R H E Cleveland.....202010000—5 6 1 New York.....110020000—4 16 1 Batteries: Falkenberg, Steen and Carisch; Fisher, Schulz, McHale, Gossett and Sweeney.

St. Louis, 7; Washington, 5
 WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Washington dropped back into third place by losing to the Browns, 7 to 5, when the Senators blew up and made seven errors, all of them costly. Score: R H E St. Louis.....001000501—7 7 3 Washington.....010020200—5 7 0 Batteries: Leverenz, Mitchell, McAllister and Agnew; Ayres, Boehling and Henry.

NATIONAL LEAGUE Philadelphia, 2-1; Chicago, 0-5

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The Phillies and Cubs divided a double bill yesterday, the visitors taking the first 2 to 0 and the locals the final game 5 to 1. Scores: First game—R H E Philadelphia.....001001000—2 7 0 Chicago.....000000000—0 3 0 Batteries: Alexander and Doolin; Humphries and Archer.

Second game—R H E Philadelphia.....010000000—1 7 0 Chicago.....000011210x—5 9 0 Batteries: Chalmers, Brennan and Killifer; Pierce and Bresnahan.

Boston, 5; St. Louis, 1
 ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—The Braves made it three straight from the Cardinals by winning yesterday's game 5 to 1. Errors by the locals were largely responsible for the size of the score. Score: R H E Boston.....310000001—5 5 1 St. Louis.....010000000—1 5 4 Batteries: Hess and Raden; Griner, Trekel and Snyder.

PRATT AMBITIOUS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Derrill Pratt of the St. Louis Browns, asked for a permit to try catching a ball dropped from the top of the Washington monument. It has been done by "Gobby" Street and Billy Sullivan, with catcher's mitts. Pratt thinks he can do it with a first baseman's glove.

GREEKS ATTACK AMERICAN MISSION

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Dispatches from Avtona, on the Adriatic today told of the seizure by the Greeks of an American mission at Koritsa, in Albania, where 100 Albanian girls were receiving instruction. Other attacks on Americans were also reported and it was asserted the Greeks were persecuting Albanians who recently returned from America. The British consul at Monastir has entered a vigorous protest.

WILLIAM T. JEROME SULZER ATTORNEY

William T. Jerome.

William T. Jerome, former district attorney in New York city, is a very busy man these days. Before he was called upon to act as deputy attorney general in the Thaw case he was retained by Governor Sulzer as one of the latter's attorneys in the impeachment trial. Unless the Thaw matter is settled up before the impeachment trial is over, however, it is likely that Jerome will withdraw as one of the Sulzer counsel.

GIANT GUARD HAS CHANGE OF HEART

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 23.—Paul Hardiner, 215 pound guard of the University of Illinois eleven, appeared for practice today after Coach Zupke had satisfied himself that he had deserted Illinois to go to the University of Chicago, where his brother is one of Alonzo Stag's charges. Hardiner stopped off at Champaign to say good-bye to some of his old friends, changed his mind and unpacked his trunks.

TANGO FOOTBALL BY STAGG

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—"Tango football" is what the Maroon linemen dubbed the latest form of drill ordered by Coach Stagg today. Stagg had his men sliding, gliding, wriggling and pivoting with all the variations of a dance. Redmon, a 270 pound guard, had a hard time sticking to the finish.

WELSH KNOCKS OUT IMAGINARY RITCHIE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight champion, went through with the program he mapped out for himself Saturday. It will probably be some little time yet before the Ritchie-Welsh affair at Vancouver can be regarded as a closed incident. There will be lawsuits and sworn testimony, and it may be that the public will learn the inside facts of one of the biggest farces the sport of pugilism has known.

Ritchie, it will be remembered, was to have boxed Welsh at Vancouver Saturday. Ritchie did not like the way things were going up there and came away without going through the formality of bidding Welsh and the promoters good-bye.

Here is Freddie's schedule as it came over the wires from Vancouver: Weigh in at 12:15 p. m., at 13, pounds; hop through the ropes at the Brighthouse arena an hour later, shadow box an imaginary Ritchie; land an imaginary knockout; declare himself world's champion, visit the lawyers and make a claim for the $2,500 forfeit money, together with other amounts said to have been lost in declining other bouts.

COBB GETS SIX HITS FOR TITLE

DETROIT, Sept. 23.—By pounding out four safe hits in eight trips to the plate, while his team went scoreless in yesterday's double bill against the Athletics, Ty Cobb practically sewed up the American league batting honors for 1913. Ty now has a lead of fourteen points over his nearest rival, Joe Jackson, while Tris Speaker, the third man in the race, is six points to the rear of the Nap slugger. They now stand: Cobb, .386; Jackson, .372; Speaker, .366. With the season nearly done Cobb must suffer a severe slump if he is beaten.
